Science

by

Mary Woolley

President & CEO, Research!America

Mary Woolley is the president of Research!America, the nation's largest not-for-profit, membership supported grassroots public education and advocacy organization committed to making medical and health research a higher national priority. Research!America's reports and publications, websites, and constituent education initiatives have been honored by leading regional and international communications and advocacy organizations, including the Public Relations Society of America.

Woolley is an elected member of the Institute of Medicine and serves on its Governing Council. She is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) and serves on the National Academies Board on Life Sciences. She is a founding member of the Board of Associates of the Whitehead Institute for Biomedical Research. Woolley has served as president of the Association of Independent Research Institutes (AIRI), as editor of the Journal of the Society of Research Administrators, and as a reviewer for the National Institutes of Health and National Science Foundation.

Woolley received a B.S. from Stanford University and a M.A. from San Francisco State University. Woolley has an honorary doctoral degree from the Northeastern Ohio Universities Colleges of Medicine and Pharmacy. She has a 30-year editorial and publication history on science advocacy and research related topics. In her early career, Woolley served as San Francisco project director for the then largest-ever NIH-funded clinical trial, the Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial (MRFIT). In 1981, she became administrator of the Medical Research Institute of San Francisco, and in 1986 was named the Institute's executive director and CEO. Woolley has served as president and CEO of Research!America since 1990.
